MINISTRY OF INFORMATION AND BROADCASTING*New Delhi, the 22nd August 1960*

G.S.R. 996.—The following draft of an Order which the Central Government proposes to make in exercise of the powers conferred by section 3 of the Newspaper (Price & Page) Act, 1956 (45 of 1956) is hereby published for the information of all associations of publishers and all publishers of daily newspapers likely to be affected thereby, and notice is hereby given that the said draft will be taken into consideration on or after the 12th September, 1960.

2. Any objection or suggestion which may be received with respect to the said draft before the date so specified shall be considered by the Central Government.

DRAFT ORDER

1. (1) This Order may be called the Newspaper (Price and Page) Order, 1960.

(2) It extends to the whole of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

(3) It shall come into force on.....1960 and shall cease to have effect on the 6th day of September, 1961.

2. In this Order, unless the context otherwise requires,—

(a) “quarter”, in relation to a year, means a period of three months beginning with January, April, July or October;

(b) “Schedule” means the Schedule appended to this Order;

(c) “week” means a period of seven consecutive days beginning with a Monday;

(d) “weekly edition”, in relation to a daily newspaper published on seven days in a week, means an edition thereof issued once every week on a specified day, whether or not such edition appears under the same title as that of the daily newspaper or the price charged therefor is different from that charged on other days.

3. Where the price charged for a daily newspaper is relatable to any of the categories specified in column 1 of Part I of the Schedule, the number of pages of all the issues of that newspaper published during six days in a week shall not exceed the maximum number of pages assigned to such newspaper in that Part.

4. Where the price charged for the weekly edition of a daily newspaper is relatable to any of the categories specified in column 1 of Part II of the Schedule, the number of pages of that edition shall not exceed the maximum number of pages assigned to such category in that Part.

5. Notwithstanding anything contained in paragraph 3 and paragraph 4, a daily newspaper may, in addition to its permissible quota under the said paragraphs, publish during a week, whether in any one or more issues thereof, such number of pages as does not exceed twice the daily average of its permissible quota under paragraph 3:

Provided that in no case, such additional number of pages shall exceed six.

6. Notwithstanding anything contained in paragraph 3, a daily newspaper may, on the 26th January and the 15th August every year and once every quarter on any such special occasion as the publisher thereof thinks fit, publish a supplement or special edition of the newspaper containing additional number of pages not exceeding the quota assigned to it under paragraph 5.

7. If the Central Government is of opinion that it may be necessary for daily newspapers to issue supplements or special editions thereof on any special occasion not provided for in paragraph 6, the Central Government may, by general or special order, exempt such supplements or special editions from the operations of paragraph 3, or paragraph 4, to such extent as may be specified in the Order.

8. A daily newspaper shall not be deemed to have contravened any of the provisions of paragraph 3 or paragraph 4, unless the number of pages of all the issues of that newspaper published during any period of twelve consecutive weeks exceeds the quota assigned to such newspaper during that period in accordance with the provisions of this Order.
